

LEWIS BLAMES "FREE TRADERS" FOR DEPRESSION

Congress Candidate, At East Liverpool, Rakes
New Deal Policies

CALLS FOR QUOTAS ON IMPORTATIONS

Shares Platform with One Of His Opponents, Rev.
Edgar Cochran

EAST LIVERPOOL, April 23.—
Taking the New Deal for its reciprocal tariff policies and advocating the establishment of a quota or restriction on the importation of foreign products, Earl R. Lewis, of St.
Cainville, last night placed much of the blame for the depression at the door of "free traders"—in another of a series of talks in his campaign for the Republican nomination for congress in the Eighteenth district.

Lewis, who spoke before the Young Republicans club of this city, shared the program with one of his opponents, Rev. Edgar Cochran, of Steubenville.

Calls Roosevelt Real "Issue"

The speakers were introduced by Jason H. Brooks, Jr., president of the club.

Taking exception to Lewis' statement that the real challenge today was the defeat of a "rubber stamp" congress, Rev. Cochran declared the big issue was Franklin D.
Roosevelt.

"The first and major step of the American public," he said, "is to restore President Roosevelt to private life."

The second issue is the nomination of Republican candidates who, through ability and experience, can fight "the strongest political organization in the history of the United States, and emerge victoriously."

Lewis cited the ceramic industry
as an example of the ruinous reciprocal treaties, which have thrown open the avenues of trade with foreign countries, at the expense of the home-working man and home industry.

He pointed out the tremendous advantages of American life in both financial circles and social conditions and attributed much of the unbounded wealth of the country to a firm and unwavering policy of protective tariffs that has maintained a high standard of living.

While he assailed the reciprocal tariff as "one of the tragedies of this era of depression," Lewis also cited curtailed production, centralization of power in national government and especially in the president, and vast expenditures, as the New Deal's atrocious methods of achieving the problems that face all governments.

Attacks Free Traders

Concentrating his attack largely on the "free traders," Lewis declared that "the ceramic industry, like so many other of our industries, has been built behind the protection of a tariff wall that has prevented the products of cheaply paid foreign labor and has preserved the American market for Parents Seek To Win Custody of Freddie Barth-

Orphan Hero

Mrs. Lillian Bartholomew

Mylicent Bartholomew

HOLLYWOOD, April 23.—Seldom has this faded film colony, accustomed as it is to sensations, been so aroused over an event as the impending battle over custody of Freddie Bartholomew, the 11-year-old prodigy who catapulted to stardom.

This talented and somewhat wistful little figure is the center of a legal battle between his mother, Mrs. Lillian Mae Bartholomew, and his aunt, Miss Mylicent Bartholomew.

It is his aunt who has been both mother and father to Freddie since the age of four. It was she who brought him to Hollywood and obtained for him his initial role in "David Copperfield," a performance which made film history and shot young Freddie to international fame and a weekly salary of $1,250.

"Aunt Cissie," as she is known, began training Freddie for the drama at an early age. He was taught to elocution, made intimately acquainted with Dickens and Shakespeare, and encouraged to take part in recitations and play-lets. In 1934 when an international search was launched for a boy suitable to play the orphan hero in

SAXON SINGERS WILL RALLY FOR CONCERT MAY 10

Salem Maennerchor Plans
25th Anniversary Celebration

VISITING GROUPS WILL TAKE PART

Saengerbund President,
Others On Program
As Speakers

The Salem Maennerchor, better known as the Transylvania Saxon Singing society, will celebrate the 25th anniversary of its founding with an elaborate concert on Sunday, May 10, in the High school auditorium.

Ten related singing groups from Canton, Alliance, Youngstown, and Farrell, Pa., have already accepted invitations to take part in the concert. More are expected from other cities.

Ladies' Chorus To Take Part

The recently organized Salem Damenchor, ladies' chorus, will also take part in the concert, when the two choruses combine in the singing of the beloved "Blue Danube".

A 13-piece concert orchestra will furnish accompaniment for the singers.

The entire concert will be under the direction of Jacob Faust, director of the Salem Maennerchor.

The concert program will include numbers by all the guest choruses, solos by distinguished local artists,
and numbers by the concert orchestra.

Speakers will include George Schneider of Cleveland, publisher of the Transylvania American Peoples Journal; Stefan Klans-burger, of Detroit, president of the Saengerbund, of which the Salem Maennerchor is Branch 7; and Atty. H. L. McCarthy of Salem.

All-Day Program

The concert, to which all local music groups and musicians have been specially invited, is part of an all day program which will begin with services at the American Lutheran church on South Broadway, and end with an elaborate dinner program at the Sachsen-heim.

Although organized singing of the old German folk songs in Saxon circles had begun as early as 1904, it was not until 1911 that the Salem Maennerchor was permanently organized. From that date to this—25 years—Saxon Saxons have sung their German folk songs, and in more recent years have undertaken more ambitious music.

Always under expert direction,
the Salem Maennerchor on its 25th anniversary can boast of an extensive repertoire.

Wins Many Honors

It has won numerous honors in choruses in the saengerfestes which are held every second year. Today the group has about 40 active singers. Over the period of 25 years it is estimated that about 200 singers have been with the organization at one time or another.

This anniversary celebration will give Salem an inkling of what to expect when about 6,000 people, including over 1,000 singers, will come to Salem next year for the biennial saengerfest.

John Bahmiller, president of the Maennerchor, heads the committee in charge of the celebration.

Tabernacle Revival Meets With Success

The ministry of Evangelist L. T.
Stewart, who opened his two week series of revival services Monday night at the Lighthouse tabernacle, 175 West State st., has been greatly appreciated and enjoyed by a number of persons already.

He spoke last night on "When God Averages His Elect." He announced the subject of the first of his prophetic messages, illustrated by a chart, "Breaking Seals, or Judgment Times."

Services will continue nightly including Saturday. They are designed for the benefit of all denominations and people of the city and vicinity, Rev. M. R. Searles, pastor, said.

both nights, to go in a group to the conference.

by a prayer service and social. Rev.

yearly meeting superintendent, will be in charge. A debate is scheduled for Friday's meeting.

Mine Rescue Squad Tunnels Through 200 Feet Of Earth; Entombed Men Are Saved

Rescuers Save Entombed Men

One of the most dramatic scenes in recent mining history was enacted on Moose River, Nova Scotia, when rescuers broke through to the gold mine shaft where Dr. D. E. Robertson and Alfred Scadding had been entombed for 10 days. Both men were in critical condition from privations which had taken the life of the third member of their party, Herman Magill. This photo, taken just before the rescue, shows miners working at the bottom of the emergency shaft.

Dr. Robertson and Companion Are Brought To Surface

FEAT IS CHEERED BY GREAT CROWD

Victims Expected to Recover Rapidly From Their Ordeal

(Copyright, 1936, By The Associated Press)

MOOSE RIVER, N. S., April 23.— Mocking the death that threatened them for ten days, Dr. D. E. Robertson and Charles Alfred Scadding were rescued today from their living tomb within the abandoned
Moose river gold mine.

Sitting up and laughing, but keeping their eyes averted from the body of their dead companion, Herman Magill, they were released from their trap by a daring rescue crew of miners who tunneled through 200 feet of "live earth."

Doctor Crawls Out

The 62-year-old Dr. Robertson, a noted Toronto physician, crawled with his rescuers out of the crumbling 141-foot level of the old mine and most of the way up the main operating shaft.

Placed on a stretcher, he was carried the rest of the way to the surface and emerged at 11:44 p. m., Wednesday, E. S. T. into the free air he had not breathed since the mine caved in Easter Sunday.

"Thank you, boys," the doctor said, waving to the cheering, singing crowd, gathered at the mine head, as he was born triumphantly to an emergency hospital.

The 44-year-old Scadding, more weakened by the ordeal of the long entombment, was carried all the way to the surface on a specially constructed stretcher, his rescue being completed at 1 a. m.

Magill's Body On Stretcher

Behind the rescued men lay the body of Magill, 30 years old, who perished in the dank underground cavern early Monday, unable to withstand any longer the torments of exposure, cold, hunger, darkness and uncertainty.

At first, the handful of miners who effected the rescue said
"we didn't like to bring up" the body.

Covered with a sheet and carried on a stretcher, the body of Magill was taken to the surface after Dr.
Robertson and Scadding were released.

The miners who succeeded in the rescue, the officials who directed their work and the spectators who were drawn to this isolated settlement, joined in singing:

"Praise God from Whom all blessings flow."

Mrs. Robertson and Mrs. Scadding, who had slept in the little mine office building and made their headquarters there while waiting and praying for the rescue, went to their husbands' sides as they were removed to the emergency hospital.

The three physicians in charge of the medical unit, Dr. H. K.
McDonald, Dr. N. D. Rankin and Brenton of Halifax county and at 2:10 a. m.

Rapid Recovery Seen

"Dr. D. E. Robertson and Alfred Scadding arrived at the imprisoned hospital at 1:10 a. m. today. Dr.
Robertson's physical and mental condition is excellent. It is much better than anticipated. We feel he will have a rapid recovery."

"Alfred Scadding's condition is surprisingly good. His feet were cold and swollen and somewhat blistered, but we do not anticipate further trouble."

"The patients will be left in Moose river a few days, then transferred to Halifax."

"In the meantime they will receive medical and hospital supervision at the emergency hospital here."

A coroner's jury was called to determine the cause of the death of Magill, Toronto barrister and partner with Dr. Robertson in ownership of the gold mine.

The inquest will be held here late today, attended by Royal Canadian mounted police, Sheriff R. A.
Brenton of Halifax county and County Coroner Adam Burris of Middle Musquodoboit.

Winona Is Hunting For Baby Carriage

"Wanted—an old fashioned baby carriage capable of carrying a 150-pound baby."

The Methodist church at Winona would like to have such a baby carriage, if there is any in existence. If not, then the robust "infant" will likely be trundled about daintily in a trailer or some similar contraption.

No, the stork hasn't visited overtime in Winona. The church is planning a play, "The Womanless Wedding," in which men take all the roles, some 60 having been assigned parts already. Someone must play the part of the child. In this case, it has to be a very husky tot.

The show will be presented, as a church benefit, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, April 28 and 29.
Rehearsal is scheduled for 7
m. Friday.

15 YEARS OLD

Life begins, not "at forty", as a contemporary writer phrases it for the benefit of some of us not so young, but it begins at the beginning, where it should, for a large number of unfortunate children who have come under the care of the Rotary club.

Caring for crippled children, doing everything possible that money and treatment will do to give them a physical start in life, has long been the principal objective of Rotary. For years, this humanitarian project and the name of Rotary have been more or less synonymous.

The work has been done quietly, unostentatiously, but effectively. As a result, there are today many youngsters, some in Salem, who can look forward to life with hope.

Rotary has accomplished many things. This has been one of its biggest jobs.

So, on the occasion of the observance of the 15th anniversary of the founding of the Salem club, the city extends its congratulations and sincere wishes for continued success.

AMONG THOSE INTERESTED

Reports being circulated about a "Stop Landon" movement produce more curiosity than conviction in the minds of persons who try to look at politics objectively. In plain truth, such reports don't make sense.

Gov. Landon, without indulging in more than a minimum of national political activity, has gained tremendous strength as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination. It is a fact that the nomination is seeking him; he has not sought the nomination, though it is known he would accept it enthusiastically if it were offered to him.

To a perceptible extent he has added strength to the Republican party as a contender for presidential victory in November. Throughout the country there is a definite feeling that he could make a stronger appeal for favor than any other candidate for the Republican nomination. That is fact, not opinion. Every poll of favor for the several Republican possibilities shows Gov. Landon in the lead.

Why should any faction in the Republican party wish to "stop Landon"? To be sure, there are reasons why Landon enthusiasts shouldn't be allowed to run away with the national convention, but they do not explain why anyone should draw the inference that certain men actually wish to impair the Kansas governor's obviously favorable position between now and next June.

If there be persons interested in blocking the course of the Landon bandwagon, surely a reasonable analyst must look first among them for members of the Democratic party. They have a strong and logical reason for wanting to "stop Landon." Until conclusive evidence to the contrary is produced, it seems safe to assume that one source of reports designed to suggest that Gov. Landon's candidacy is meeting strong opposition within the Republican party does not lie far from the center of the Democratic national committee's able publicity bureau.

HE WILL BE MISSED

The modern great grandchildren of Moses Cleveland (they like to spell great grandpa's name with that extra "a") aren't much different from the residents of other cities, except for one thing. They cling to what traffic experts call the rotary left-hand turn and what most automobile drivers more realistically call a blankety blank nuisance.

It appears now that in the interest of hospitality Cleveland finally is going to abandon its peculiar left-hand turn and conform to the inside, or short, turn favored by all other large cities. The Forest City is expecting an unusual number of visitors this summer, and it seems willing to acknowledge that the rotary turn would be confusing to out-of-towners.

That is, of course, a matter for Clevelanders to decide. There is a relatively unimportant phase of the rotary turn, however, which is of direct interest to residents of other cities. It happens that Cleveland drivers, who become so accustomed to pulling to the right of intersections before turning left that they think nothing of it, sometimes forget themselves when away from home. When it happens, local drivers and policemen merely slam on the brakes, shake their heads sadly and mutter, "Just another Cleveland driver."

If Cleveland finally abandons its traffic peculiarity, that occasional Cleveland driver who identifies himself away from home is going to be missed. He will be indistinguishable from the highway horde at last.

THE STARS SAY.

For Friday, April 24

A very lively and exciting day is presaged from the prevailing stellar activities, although these may be fraught with difficulties, delays, doubts, disappointment and duplicity. Be vigilant as to all manner of undercover attacks and treacheries to avoid slander and misrepresentation.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a lively year, but one not satisfactory or smooth. There is danger of duplicity, slander, misrepresentation and intrigue, calling for eternal vigilance, especially in employment and in connection with secret societies or business rings or mergers. Domestic, social and other private affiliations should prove comforting and profitable as well.

A child born on this day, while lively and energetic, may have its moods and depressions, and be easily discouraged. It will find solace in its private life.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, April 23.—Dick Berlin, magazine executive, has become one of the three most widely traveled of the American air passengers. The nonchalant sort who can take off in a furthestmost corner of the world and be napping before the plane reaches high altitudes.

The log of his most recent journey reads like some modern Jules Verne imaginings. Such as: Sunday—Breakfast in Bagdad; lunch in Cairo; dinner in Athens. Berlin started out for a rest in Honolulu but continued on by boat to Sydney.

From there he took to the air, flying over Australia and on to Java. Then started to cross the shark-infested Timor Sea. Forty-five miles out motor trouble developed and they limped back for repairs. Then flew over Soemba, Lombok and Bali. Then to Batavia, Bangkok and into Rangoon.

Among experiences was flying low at dawn over Bethlehem, The Garden of Gethsemane, Nazareth, the River Jordan, the Dead Sea and across the Suez Canal. He also saw from the air the temples of India, bathers in the sacred Ganges and bits of life from Jodhpur to Baluchistan through remote Persia.

The profession of astrology seems no longer one of the dubious callings enconced in shabby brownstones in side streets. Or patronized chiefly by tin horn gamblers, turf tout, ladies of skimpy morals and others who live lightly and for the day. The general tosy-turvisy, especially the market crack-up, has made it one of the proverbial straws for a sinking world. It has followers in the highest stratum. The musty astrological parlor is now the satin-walled salon moderne lodged in exclusive spires. The late Evangeline Adams left a quarter million. Nella Webb's address is an avenue bon ton hotel. Myra Kingsley, of distinctive lineage and social impressiveness makes her engagements, ahem!, for February in Palm Beach; in March, April and May, New York; and June in London.

Richard Barthelmess, whose long, distinguished stage career was followed by the inevitable lull, seems to have revised the usual formula of from stage to screen. He gave an extraordinary account of himself in a New York drama this winter, almost duplicating the achievement of his fellow movie star, Walter Huston, who suddenly found himself up against studio indifference. Barthelmess in his footlight tryout has opened the doors of important producers.

Continuous burlesque shows no abatement in attendance, although first to open in the morning and last to close when Broadway goes dark. They have made several fortunes for backers the past few years. A sure-fire strain in patronage is composed of sailors in port. There are generally a dozen at every performance. But the burley's chief appeal is to the out-of-town visitor who wants to spice his visit with a dash of reckless adventure. He feels he is slipping his halter and will have something to tell the boys back home. Too, many actors like to take a look at the other half of the show world. John Barrymore takes in one when he comes to town. George Arliss has also attended several. And I'm told William Gillette, whom Groucho Marx calls "the old blade," looked in on one recently.

Sudden memory: The time you were the first colored band on your straw hat up Main Street and the crowd in front of the hotel yelled: "O, Gertrude!"

Poetic cussing, for which Mark Twain had superb talent, has become a lost art in most sections of Manhattan, what with Twain in a happier world and Bob Davis, who is no slouch if he gets his head caught in a well, hooked by a cow or something, always gadding. But down on the water front it retains its pristine charm. I heard a group of stevedores near the French line pier in action last night. It was beautiful.

Today

A Review of the Day's News

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

NEW YORK'S Tilterson murder mystery turns out not to be "the perfect crime."

The murderer, an uphoisterer, carefully took away the cord used in his trade, with which he had bound the unfortunate woman, but forgot that he had left some strands of twine under the body, and those pieces of cord, thanks to excellent police work, trapped him.

The sentimental who say "give the poor convict another chance" will note that the murderer was a convict, on parole, when he killed the woman. He had "another chance" and made use of it.

BERLIN REPORTS a great Hitler forty-seventh birthday celebration including a fine display of military power, airplanes, war-tanks, fighting men, apparently eager for a fight. They were young, and could not remember the last war.

Particularly interesting were two lines in the song sung by storm troopers:

"Today we own Germany.
And tomorrow the WHOLE WORLD."

IT'S a round and slippery world, inhabited by many peoples that do not want to be "owned," including the British Empire, the United States of America, Japan and Russia.

However, as Mr. Weber of Weber and Fields, said, when he offered $5,000 for a dog, and had only ten cents cash, "Ain't it a good offer?"

THE DAY after Hitler celebrated his forty-seventh birthday, old Rome celebrated her 2,689th anniversary. Mussolini celebrates by launching two new Italian cruisers and speeding up airplane production.

He tells Italian fathers and mothers he must have 60,000,000 population for Italy not later than 1950. In 1921, when Mussolini took charge, Italy's population was 38,000,000. There will soon be room and food to raise more Italians in Ethiopia. Easy for all but the mothers.

ON APRIL 21 one hundred years ago, Gen. Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna, president of the republic of Mexico, believed that all he had left was to "mop up" Houston and his army, outnumbered two to one by the Mexicans, lacking equipment, the men discontented because Houston had been slowly retreating, waiting until HE (Houston and not Santa Anna) should be ready.

THEN CAME the fight and within a few hours complete defeat of Santa Anna. Speaking to the advertising club in New York yesterday Jesse H. Jones, who comes from Texas and the city named for the fighting American, Houston, reminded his hearers that, without the victory at San Jacinto, "there would have been no Texas, no New Mexico, no Arizona, no California, no Nevada, no Utah, nor portions of Colorado, Wyoming, Kansas and Oklahoma for the United States."

April 21, 1836, was a happy day for the United States, and gratitude is due those old fighting men of big Texas.

LOOK WHERE you please, you find trouble; millions starving in China; scores of Catholics including sixteen priests, jailed in Spain; 10,000,000 still idle in the United States; England unable to back up words with deeds, not desiring air bombardment of London; young schoolboys, badly advised, leaving classes without permission, to protest against national preparation for war of which they know nothing; the seventy-ninth Newark conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, declaring officially "war is sin," and "in the event of war involving the United States, the Methodist church would neither sanction nor support war;" Jerusalem sends reports of incendiary rampart. Jews and Arabs in Jaffa and Tel Aviv setting fire to each other's homes and shops, rioting has killed many; one Arabian organization vowing to exterminate all Jews and all English.

Woman Is Charged With Murder While Victim Is Living

(By Associated Press)

FAYETTEVILLE, W. Va., April 23.—A charge of murder—without any basis so far—rested today against Mrs. Ethel Goodman, 36, but state police delayed withdrawing it to see whether the victim in the case might die.

There was a quarrel yesterday in the home of George Brewer, 46-year-old Kilsyth miner, and he was shot in the head.

Troopers said they heard later from the hospital he had died.

Mrs. Goodman, Brewer's housekeeper, was arraigned on a murder charge. Then police discovered Brewer still lived; they did not learn the cause of the quarrel and Mrs. Goodman in pleading innocent of the murder charge before Magistrate W. H. Level made no statement.

Rowe said he learned Brewer fired several shots at his housekeeper during the quarrel and then left the gun on the table. Rowe said Mrs. Goodman reached for the pistol and fired once.

Brewer's wife died several years ago and since then Mrs. Goodman has kept house for him and his five children.

Charges Labor's Rights Abused

William Green

An indictment of forces he alleged were opposing organization of labor was delivered by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, when he appeared before the senate sub-committee on labor in Washington, above. His indictment was based on charges that "there was an open shop drive in industry"; that the right of free speech and assembly had been increasingly invaded in the past year, and that labor espionage and strike-breaking activities had reached a point where a thorough investigation was vital.

Skin Eruptions

IT IS always a good plan to keep an eye out for disturbances of the skin. Skin eruptions are often an indication of some simple digestive disturbance. They may give warning of the onset of a contagious or infectious disease. At times the temporary relief of such a trouble is easily accomplished, but often complete cure is more difficult.

Among the disturbances I have in mind is "psoriasis." This is a chronic inflammatory disease of the skin, the actual cause of which is not yet known. I am glad to say, however, that within recent years the disease has been successfully treated. Unfortunately, there are many cases that do not respond to treatment and continue to baffle medical science.

Many persons confuse psoriasis with other chronic inflammations of the skin. For example, they often mistake it for eczema or impetigo. Let me tell you a bit more about psoriasis and point out the differences of this disease from other skin disturbances.

Sign of Disease
In psoriasis there will be seen many dry, reddish patches on the skin. These are covered by a white, grayish-white, or mother-of-pearl-colored scale. These patches vary in size from a pinhead to a silver dollar and may involve any part of the body, but are most commonly found on the elbows or knees. They differ from the rash seen in eczema in that they are dry and do not itch. In eczema the rash is moist, causing an intolerable itching.

Since the causative germ has never been discovered, other causes have been sought. Since the disease seems to occur in certain families, it may well be that heredity plays a part.

Diet and attention to the general health are of great importance in this affliction. A low protein diet is advised; this means a limitation upon all foods rich in protein, such as meat, fish, fowl, meat soups, eggs, liver and kidneys. Avoid any tendency toward constipation and make every effort to improve the general health.

Regular Eating
Meals should be taken at regular hours. Hasty eating is a bad habit that must be overcome and faulty digestion must be corrected. An abundance of fresh air and sunshine is recommended to build up the general tone of the skin. Avoid excessive fatigue and obtain adequate hours of sleep and relaxation.

Let me warn against the indiscriminate use of salves and ointments. Do not be misled by a well-meaning friend who advises some special salve "guaranteed" to cure psoriasis. Let your doctor prescribe the necessary medication. He will safeguard you from further irritation of the skin and its spread.

CORPORATE TAX BILL DENOUNCED

Republicans Call Bill "Threat To Government Stability"

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL, Associated Press Staff Writer.
WASHINGTON, April 23. — The bill to make sweeping changes in corporate taxes was denounced by Republicans today as a "vicious" threat to the stability of business and employment. Democrats prepared to reply immediately.

A few hours after Democrats on the house ways and means committee had reported to the house the complicated, 249-page bill, which they estimated would raise from $700,000,000 to $800,000,000, the seven minority members of the committee issued a report. They based their opposition on two contentions: That new taxes should not be "levied until the waste of public monies is stopped;" and that the "proposed bill is unsound in principle, will undermine business stability, and is another step toward the regimentation of all business; it is not designed to raise revenue, but is admittedly another new deal experiment."

Leaders intended to begin debate in the house today with the idea of passing the bill by May 1.

Democratic advocates of the bill contended it would mean more equitable taxation and would prevent evasions, thereby performing the two-fold function of tax reform and revenue production.

The major feature of the bill is a revamped system of taxes on corporations. With the idea of inducing dividend distribution, the rates on corporation income would be graduated according to proportions of income retained by the corporation. When dividends reached stockholders they would be subject to the 4 per cent normal income tax, as well as surtaxes. At present, only the surtaxes apply to dividends.

"Impractical theorists and so-called reformers" suggested the idea to the President, minority report added. It said Herman Oliphant, treasury counsel, "whose knowledge of tax problems and business affairs has been gleaned only from books and the class-room," is the "moving spirit behind the proposed scheme."

Levies "Windfall" Tax
Besides the graduated corporation tax, the bill provides that present capital stock and excess profits taxes be retained for a time and then repealed. It levies a "windfall" tax to capture 80 per cent of the old AAA processing levies which processors succeeded in escaping.

Under the graduated tax, corporations which must devote definite parts of their incomes to retiring standing debts would get special treatment. They would be permitted to pay a 22 1/2 per cent flat rate instead of a graduated tax.

The seven Republicans on the committee are: Representatives Treadway, Massachusetts; Bacharach, New Jersey; Crowther, New York; Knutson, Minnesota; Reed, New York; Woodruff, Michigan, and Jenkins, Ohio.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking acids and wastes out of the blood. A healthy person should pass about 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, waste stays in the body and may become poisonous. It may start nagging backaches, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't let it lay you up.

Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills—used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills.

EXPERTS PLAN $1,200 DWELLING

New Opportunities For Home - Ownership Offered

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 23.—Government building experts made public today plans by which they said a four-room house complete with plumbing, wiring and heating systems can be built for as little as $1,200.

Drafted by technicians of the federal housing administration, the plans were intended to open new opportunities for home ownership among low-income groups. Several designs have been worked out. One plan for a "minimum house" provides for two bedrooms, a bathroom and a combination living room-dining room-kitchen. Exterior walls would be of wood siding, shingles, brick, concrete block, stucco, stone or a combination of these materials.

This house, the FHA said "will include the basic requirements of light, air, reasonable comfort and sanitary convenience—nothing more." Although the FHA said it seeks "to encourage the greater production" of such houses, it added that there was no intention "of furnishing stock or 'prepared' plans for general use."

Martin added that since Aug. 1, 1935, WPA employees have done 89,000,000 man-hours of work in the state with lost-time injuries to 1,987 and fatalities to 10.

The Home Kitchen

By Jeanette Young Norton

OUR READERS always are asking for more recipes for nice dishes to be enjoyed at supper.

Sunday night supper is a favorite in many households where this meal does not mean just some cold cuts, an indifferent salad and a tasteless sweet. A nice cheese dish, or other savory main course, some hot biscuits, a good, crisp salad and a nicely-made sweet or some mixed stewed fruits, together with some cookies and plenty of coffee, make a most tempting supper menu. So here are some recipes to help the good cause along.

Here is a new way of serving cream cheese: Mix it first with its own weight in bread crumbs, then for each two ounces of crumbs, stir in the yolk of an egg. Season with cayenne. Heat this mixture over a low flame and when thoroughly mixed, spread on a plate. When cold form into little balls or sausages, dip in egg and bread crumbs or batter and fry until a golden brown.

Deviled Sausages
For delicious deviled sausages, mix a teaspoon of French mustard with a teaspoon of ordinary mustard, a teaspoon of curry powder, a teaspoon chutney, half ounce butter, a squeeze of lemon juice and salt and pepper. Broil about one pound of pork sausages, until nice and brown all over, then split and cover with the mixture. Place the halves together and put in the oven until thoroughly hot. Serve with a good gravy, mashed potatoes and grilled tomatoes.

For baked eggs and rice, grease a baking dish and place in it half pint cooked rice mixed with half pint of tomato sauce. Break six eggs carefully onto the rice and sprinkle with a gill each of grated cheese and grated bread crumbs mixed together. Add dots of butter and bake in a hot oven for ten minutes.

For another savory baked dish, boil together half pint of milk and quarter of a pint of water, stir in six tablespoons of broken macaroni with a pinch of salt and continue boiling for 10 minutes. Cool and add one ounce of grated cheese and the yolks of two eggs. Bake in buttered soufflé dish for 15 to 20 minutes. Serve at once.

Auto Economy Test Here Is Sponsored By W. L. Coy Co.

Two new automobiles and 164 other valuable prizes are to be given away by the Pontiac Motor Co., in a nationwide economy contest now under way, according to Wilbur Coy, president of the W. L. Coy Co., Inc., which will sponsor the contest locally.

Coy has extended an invitation to all residents of Salem to compete for these national prizes. The only restriction is one of age, the conditions of the contest requiring all contestants to be over 17 years old.

Prizes will be awarded to those who drive a 1936 six cylinder Pontiac the greatest number of miles per gallon over a prescribed route that has been mapped out by Coy. Entry blanks are now available for all who wish to try their hand in the contest.

Rules governing the contest require a statement of 100 words or less from each contestant covering what he liked best about the economy drive in the Pontiac.

Theater Attractions

Joan Bennett and Fred MacMurray, stars of "13 Hours By Air" showing at the State Friday and Saturday.

Airplane pictures have come back. Producers, finding them popular again, are beginning to supply the public with some of the better stories concerning pilots and their bravery. "13 Hours By Air," Paramount's contribution, comes to the State Friday and Saturday, starring Joan Bennett and Fred MacMurray. Others in the cast, well known, are Zasu Pitts, John Howard, Grace Bradley, Fred Keating and Ruth Donnelly. Alan Baxter and Brian Donlevy, two actors who won recognition for their gangster portrayals in "Mary Burns, Fugitive" also are seen in the feature.

Romance and Mystery
This picture is a story of romance and mystery on a New York to San Francisco transport plane. On board the plane, as it takes off from New York, are a girl, who calls herself a prominent socialite, but who is suspected of being a jewel thief; the nine-year-old heir to a million-dollar fortune and his governess; a man who says he is a physician; two other mysterious male passengers; and the crew—pilot, co-pilot and hostess.

Joan Bennett is the beautiful, mysterious woman who has to leave a huge diamond ring in lock for her ticket and whom the pilot of the plane, Fred MacMurray, finds exciting. Zasu Pitts plays the nurse to the spoiled, wealthy child, Benjie Bartlett. Brian Donlevy, the physician who apparently knows very little about medicine, arouses suspicion, especially that of Alan Baxter, a passenger, who is suspicious of everybody.

An attempted murder and a crack-up of the ship are two of the interesting things that happen on the trip from coast to coast with this group of strange passengers.

"Farmer In the Dell"
Tonight is the only chance to see "Farmer In the Dell" at the state theater. The cast includes Fred Stone, of stage fame, Jean Parker, Frank Albertson and Moroni Olsen.

comedy, conveying the idea that we all take ourselves too seriously and that it would be best to forget the realities of life and give ourselves a little nonsense.

Among those in the fantasy are James Cagney, Joe E. Brown, Dick Powell, Jean Muir, Olivia De Havilland, Hugh Herbert, Anita Louise, Frank McHugh, Ross Alexander, Ian Hunter, Mickey Rooney, Verree Teasdale, Hobart Cavanaugh, Victor Jory and Grant Mitchell.

Congress Candidate, At East Liverpool, Rakes New Deal Policies

The American product, and it must be apparent to even the most superficial observer that industries so built and paying a scale of wages to labor therein employed, which they do not compete with foreign labor on anything approaching equal terms.

"One of the tragedies of this era of depression in which we find ourselves has been the abandonment by the present administration of the idea of protection and the substitution thereof of a policy of reciprocal trade agreements with other countries.

"It requires no seer to understand that such a policy must inevitably lead to ruin and that the men who are responsible for the formulation of such a policy are free traders at heart and desire to introduce the oft repeated principle of free trade under the guise of reciprocity.

U. S. Wages Higher
"I am sure I need not tell an audience of East Liverpool citizens that the wages paid in the pottery industry in your community are greatly in excess of those paid by your competitors in Japan, Germany, Czechoslovakia, and many other countries.

"I understand that representatives of the manufacturers and the workmen employed in your ceramic industry appealed to the United States tariff commissioner for relief from this intolerable situation and in spite of the fact that they showed that in excess of one-third of the total ceramic products consumed in the United States are imported here by foreign countries and that if we could recapture the market thus preempted, your pottery industry could employ one-third more people at gainful wages or could increase the working days of those already employed.

"I understand that the tariff commission, evidently dominated by men who are free traders at heart, rejected your plea for relief and to this minute leave you exposed to this ruinous foreign competition. To my mind such stupidity is unthinkable.

Japan Devalues Currency
The plight of your great industry is rendered all the more precarious by the fact that your chief foreign competitors, notably Japan, have deliberately devalued their currency, thus cancelling out and rendering largely ineffectual the tariff rates heretofore established and still existing. This is a development of the last five years and it seems to me renders impossible the protection of your industry and other industries in like plight by any probable increase in tariff rates. In other words, protection by means of the tariff has been rendered largely ineffective.

"In this situation to what shall we resort? The inescapable answer is 'Protection.' whether it be obtained by means of a protective tariff or by some new consideration I submit for your arrival at the time where a new device must be resorted to if industries such as yours are to survive.

"Under a genuine policy of protection, the prosperity that has been the possession of American industry, labor and agriculture in the past, can and will be regained and the products of industry such as those of your great ceramic industry here will find themselves secure in the possession of the market of the world—the home market of America.

HOME MAKING HELPS

IT IS nice to know that despite the radio and the movies, the piano is still holding but increasing its popularity in the home.

Of course, there are some folks who have a piano because they think it lends tone to a room (no pun intended), but in the majority of instances the piano is there because the family loves music. And even if there isn't a virtuoso at the keyboard, it is delightful when the gang gets together and lifts its voice in songs old and new. Show me a home and such a gathering and you'll be showing me a happy family.

Some folks have been complaining that music in the home is on the way out and that nobody plays the piano anymore, unless he or she is a concert pianist. Well, we have made a round of the various piano showrooms and we are here to refute that statement. For each report tells of sales that far exceed expectations and the various manufacturers are busy as can be seen by the old favorites. So great is the demand for new pianos that some houses are way back on deliveries. And what beauties these new models are—

Spinet Is Back

We like the gay little studio uprights available in all sorts of colors, just the thing for a small room, a child's room or an alcove off a living room. These come with matching benches. Then there is the lovely piano, studio upright or grand, all in shining white, with or without a touch of gold.

Just as pretty, if not quite so magnificent, are the new little spinet pianos that don't take up as much space as a grand, also the new cabinet spinet pianos that take up even less space.

The latter instrument, made on the lines of the old-fashioned spinet, is ideal for the simple, homey, comfortable type of living room, the room that knows the laughter, song and happiness of a family.

Humane Group Urges Kittens Be Treated With Greatest Care

"As playful as a kitten." How often have you heard that remark? And how much more playful many little kittens would be if their owners knew properly just how to care for them, what to feed them, and how to provide proper sleeping quarters.

In order to develop even more playfulness generally among kittens, the American Humane association which, with 500 anti-cruelty societies, this week is conducting Be Kind to Animals anniversary, has some suggestions to make regarding the care of kittens. Here is that word from the Columbian County Humane society.

Four Meals a Day
Remember, the kitten is a baby, and like all babies needs a little food every few hours—four meals a day. It is very important too, that the feeding bowl should always be just as clean as possible.

Fresh milk should be given and it should not be icy cold. Cereals are good for the kitten, and bread may be mixed in. Also it should have vegetables, such as beans and peas, and don't forget either, that fish is very good for the young cat, but be very careful that all bones are removed.

Bits of cut meat once a day are a necessity, but raw meat should not be given more than twice a week.

The cat needs no bathing nor help in keeping itself clean. It is important that the sleeping quarters be kept continuously clean, and that they be placed where there is no draft.

One of the cruellest things that can be done to a young kitten or a grown cat is to abandon it. They simply cannot live without suffering if left to shift for themselves. Sooner or later they are bound to pick up some tainted food, become diseased, and contaminate. Wanted Pets. If you no longer want the cat, turn it over to your local humane society. That is the kindest thing you can do.

Winter Was Hard On Bees In Area

The most serious winter killing of bees for a great number of years occurred this year, according to W. E. Dunham, bee specialist of Ohio State university, who conducted a demonstration meeting at the S. H. Sittler farm near Salem recently.

Losses this year are even worse than in 1917, he said. Many colonies are destroyed, while others are seriously weakened. Weak colonies may be built up to standard strength by use of package bees, which can be purchased from southern states.

The supply of package bees, however, is limited and many bee keepers who have not looked at their bee colonies and who do not order soon will be unable to get the needed supply.

Fruit growers will suffer losses due to lack of sufficient bees for proper pollination in many orchards, Dunham said. Addresses of producers of package bees may be secured from bee journals, from bee supply dealers or from the county extension office at Lisbon.

While none of the eight teams which made their bids for honors in the city handicap tenpin tournament last night was able to come within 200 pins of the 3,119 top score set by the Knights of Columbus Tuesday, the Salem News five moved into third position in the standings with a 2,912 made at the Masonic temple alleys.

The News keggers, rated among the best in the tourney, included a 306-pin handicap in their score.

Individual honors in last night's competition went to Charles Werret who paced the City Hall quintet to a 2,829 with an even 600 series at the Grate Recreation alleys. Werret's single game scores were 174, 209 and 217.

The Mullins Engineers, possessor of the largest handicap of any team in the tourney, 630 pins, failed to master the mazes at the Masonic temple and turned in a 2,695 score.

BUCKS FAVORITE IN PENN RELAYS

Lone Star State Trackers Also Predicted To Come Through

(By Associated Press) PHILADELPHIA, April 23.—Athletes from the west and southwest, particularly the Longhorns from Texas and the Buckeyes from Ohio State, loomed today as the boys to beat in many headline events of the 42nd renewal of the Penn relays this weekend.

The Texans, first on the scene—they got in yesterday—were the odds on choice to gallop off with both the short distance relays—the 440 and 880.

Anchored by Chink Wallender, the Lone Star state squad appears considerably stronger than the other prominent contenders—Ohio State and Cornell in the 440, and the Buckeyes and Penn in the half-mile.

Ohio State was considered a threat in half a dozen events, both relays and individual, particularly in the latter, where Jesse Owens, the brilliant Buckeye, and Temple's Eulace Peacock renew their dual rivalry in the 100-meter sprint and the broad jump.

Michigan State was another standout threat from the west, particularly in the distance medley and four mile relays. From the east, Manhattan and Cornell seemed to have the greatest all-round strength.

BREVITY LOOKS GOOD IN GUMBO

Muddy Track Fails To Bother Derby Favorite In Workout

(By Associated Press) LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 23.—Scorers of Brevity's mud-running ability, who have been sounding off about the sad plight of the Widener colt if the track is sticky on Derby day, were a silent lot today. The favorite blew up their argument yesterday when, running in the gumbo, he reeled off six furlongs in 1:15 and made his running mate, Chance Sun, a superior mudder, look like a plater.

Chief Hazard Brevity's chief Derby hazard, the wise ones avow, lies in the fact that so many top flight springers are slated to go to the post. The sages declare that if the son of Chance Shot or Sickle elects to keep in the company of Coldstream, Tintagel, The Gighter, Delphinium, and Postage Due in the early stages of the race he may be out of gas when such slow starters as Granville, Ned Reigh, Grand Slam, Gold Seeker and others make their bid in the stretch.

Good Performance Incidentally it seems that Col. E. R. Bradley has another potent Derby hand in Bien Joli and Banister, neither of which has been considered any great shakes. The Bradley pair worked a mile and a quarter, the Derby distance, together yesterday. Bien Joli, finishing a length and a half in the van, was clocked in 2:09 3-5, considered an excellent performance on the muddy track.

Indian Broom Due Derby interest, already at fever pitch, was given an additional fillip with word that Grand Slam, Bomar stable's great mud-runner, Mrs. F. C. Mars' The Fighter and Brookmeade's stable's Indian Broom were due at the Downs today. Grand Slam was enroute from Maryland. The Fighter from Texas and Indian Broom from California.

THE SALEM NEWS SPORTS

What Goes Into Making Derby Winner?

"What does it take to develop a Kentucky Derby winner?" Long and patient effort, painstaking training and careful treatment at the hands of the trainer are necessary to bring a three-year-old colt to the peak of form for the Kentucky classic. The yearling must first be acquainted with the feel of a saddle and bridle. It is then necessary to familiarize them with bearing the weight of a jockey. First actual track trials proceed at a slow pace. A "lead pony" accompanies the youngster on his first gallops to better acquaint him with strange new conditions. Special exercises are instituted to develop stamina, leg strength and correct any defects. Finally the young colt is entered in his first race to determine whether he will actually stand up under competition, to find out if he has the "heart" and racing spirit necessary in a winner. This is part of the routine necessary to developing a potential derby winner, but there is a legion of other tricks to the trade which make such trainers as "Sunny Jim" Fitzsimmons and Dick Thompson, who together have trained six derby winners, invaluable men to the owner who would have his colors romp home in front.

"THERE'S MURDER IN THE AIR"

by ROY CHANSLOR

SYNOPSIS

Ruth Tyler, blind daughter of former District Attorney Daniel Tyler, is psychic. She foretells murders at the exact time they are being committed but is powerless to give sufficient information to prevent them. These weird visitations come upon Ruth while she plays her violin and always at night. Mr. Tyler seeks the aid of Dr. Jan Karask, celebrated psychiatrist, but the latter must go to Baltimore on another case. Tyler expresses his disappointment that Karask is not interested.

CHAPTER II

"Interested?" exclaimed Dr. Karask. "But certainly I am interested, my dear fellow! I would give almost anything—why, this is a fascinating case, sir, fascinating. I'm not one to exaggerate; so you will believe me when I tell you this case may prove to be one of incomparable—yes, incomparable importance to the study of mental phenomena!"

"Then why—" Tyler was bewildered.

"The case to which I am committed involves the sanity of a dear friend," said Dr. Karask. "Perhaps the lives of his wife and children. If it were anything else—any other case at all, I could turn it over to my assistant. But this is a personal responsibility."

"You spoke of an assistant," said Tyler hopefully.

"Yes," said Dr. Karask thoughtfully. "But he is young—and not himself a psychiatrist."

"Oh," said Tyler, disappointedly. "I can't you even give me advice, Dr. Karask?"

Again the little man turned his look of mild astonishment upon Tyler.

"Advice?" he said reproachfully. "In a case of this importance, without a personal investigation? My dear sir!"

"But what shall I do?" cried Tyler desperately. "If your assistant is not qualified—"

"I did not say he was not qualified," said Dr. Karask mildly. "I merely said he was young, and not a psychiatrist."

"Then do you think—" Tyler began, his hope rising.

"He is extremely competent," said Dr. Karask. "He has been my confidential assistant for four years, understands my—ah—methods. He has a good education, comes of excellent family, and has a very keen, observing mind. I have known him fifteen years. He is entirely trustworthy. But I would not urge—"

"I rely upon your judgment, Dr. Karask," said Tyler earnestly. "If you think this young fellow qualified—"

"I think him qualified," said Dr. Karask. "But you—"

"If you say he's all right, then he is all right," said Tyler.

"Wait," said Dr. Karask. "I shall tell you more about him. His name is Nathaniel Hawthorne Benson. I first met him during the war. At sixteen, unable to get into the American forces, he had run away to Canada, joined the Canadians. Though a mere boy, he became a flyer, a gallant one. He was brought down in a fight with two German planes, and cracked up inside our lines."

Dr. Karask paused and smiled. "The American lines, you understand? He had a piece of steel in his skull, touching the brain. I was with the base hospital. The steel was removed, but he had suffered a terrific shock. In short, he was a mental case. I had charge of it. I was fortunate enough to cure him. After the war he went to college at the University of Pennsylvania, and we kept in touch with each other. He was an accomplished, even famous athlete as well as a fine student. His own case had made him keenly interested in my work. After college, when I was head of an institution in Philadelphia, he came to me, asked to work with me. I soon made him my assistant. When I left to become a private psychiatrist—what he calls trouble-shooter—I took him along. He has worked on my most important cases. That is all."

"He could—consult with you by telephone?" asked Tyler.

"Yes," said Dr. Karask.

"Then he will do," said Tyler.

"Very good," said Dr. Karask. He regarded Tyler thoughtfully.

"One thing," he continued. "I think it advisable that you—ah—let him find things out for himself. eh? I think you should—ah—tell him only the girl's background. Ah—not the details of the—ah—the—shall we say peculiar manifestations. He has ears—and eyes. Let him use them, eh? Then he will have no preconceived—ah—notions about the case. He will come to it freshly, cleanly, no?"

"It is the case of my—daughter," he said.

Tyler nodded. "He will come—immediately?" he asked anxiously.

"He returns from a case in Boston tonight," said Dr. Karask. "I shall have left before he arrives. But I shall leave a message—"

"And in the morning—"

"But couldn't he—couldn't he come tonight?" asked Tyler.

Dr. Karask nodded slowly. "As you wish," he said. "Tonight, then."

Nat Benson pulled his coat closer about his throat as he turned off Fifth Avenue and faced the icy blast of wind which blew down East Seventy-ninth Street. At the corner of Madison he stopped for a moment under a street lamp and looked at his watch. It was five minutes after midnight. A strange hour to go out on a case! But it was like old Doc to shoot him out like this with that cryptic little message.

He pulled the slip of paper from his pocket and stared at it again. It read:

"Please report to Mr. Daniel Tyler—East Seventy-ninth Street, immediately on return. Urgent agency. You have an opportunity to discover something that may be of revolutionary importance—that may affect the whole course of human relations.—Karask."

Nat's eyes brightened. This was something to look forward to! He confirmed the address again, and plunged on into the wind. Presently he began to scan the house numbers. It was an excellent neighborhood, mostly of new buildings. Ah, there was the house! He gazed up at an imposing old house, distinguished, aloof, aristocratic among the shiny new apartment buildings.

It was dark except for a beam of light from the window of the parlor floor. He mounted the broad curving steps and pressed the button. The bell was answered, after a moment, by a white-haired butler, as distinguished-looking, in his way, as the house itself.

"Mr. Benson," Nat said. "I believe Mr. Tyler is expecting me?"

The butler nodded, and led him into an old-fashioned living-room on the parlor floor, seated him and vanished silently. Nat glanced about him curiously. It was a noble old room, high-ceilinged, a room with a much-lived-in atmosphere. Nat liked the soft, heavy rug, the big period chair in which he sat, the massive old furniture, the melow grand piano. He relaxed, felt comfortable, almost at home.

In a moment a tall, sparely-built man of middle years, clad in dressing-gown, appeared. His strong, high-boned face, framed under a great mane of white hair, was immediately illuminated by a charming, friendly smile.

"Ah, Mr. Benson," he said, in a rich, grave voice. "I am Daniel Tyler."

Nat admired the thin, high-bridged nose, the finely-chiseled features, the patrician quality of the man's whole bearing as he advanced toward him across the room, hand outstretched. He gave an odd impression of both delicacy and power, an impression strengthened when Nat grasped his hand, a smooth, almost soft hand, flexible, was incredibly long, tapering fingers, and then felt its firm, strong clasp.

"I'm glad to see you," Tyler said warmly. "It was good of you to come at this hour. Please sit down."

Nat sank back into the great chair and returned Tyler's appraising glance with a smile. The man coughed deprecatingly.

"Forgive me—scrutiny," he said. "But this is—a very delicate case, you see. And I—"

"I understand," said Nat quietly. "Now, hadn't you better tell me just what this 'delicate case' is?"

Tyler looked at him steadily, thoughtfully, for a moment.

"It is the case of my—daughter," he said.

"A mental case?" Nat asked sympathetically.

"No, no," said Tyler quickly. "That is—don't think that she is at all deficient, mentally. On the contrary—"

He paused, and Nat raised puzzled eyebrows but said nothing.

"It's—well, it is a mental case, of course, to a certain extent," Tyler went on. "What I mean is, my daughter is not at all unbalanced. You understand?"

Nat did not, but he nodded gravely.

Prof. Carlos Toledano, captured by the rebels, was burned to death, while another teacher, Pablo Jimenez, was set free with his ears cut off.
